LCBI is continuing its purpose! Over half of the students this year are new to LCBI. Some have come to escape the pressures and displeasures of their former school and are finding a new way to live, a way to bring Jesus into their lives. You can see a graph presenting our growing trend in student registrations in the Recruitment Report of this issue, page 9.

We have a saying at LCBI: “To come to LCBI is to know that you are loved.” As parents, administrators, and teachers, the most important value we can relay is that our students know they are loved.

We are a “We Would See Jesus” school. Firstly, We Would See Jesus as our Christ and our Lord. Secondly, We Would See Jesus working in the lives of our students and staff. We have so little time with our students – sometimes a couple of years, sometimes only a year – that we must focus on Seeing Jesus. Our daily chapel is daily worship. Our devotions, morning and evening, are times for personal reflection.

Dedication and Hard Work

LCBI is operating with limited human resources. Within the last few years, our operating staff has been reduced by forty percent. Specifically, we have moved from 32 to 19 staff members. Through the dedication and hard work of our staff, we have, amazingly, been able to maintain traditional levels of student support and academic quality even while taking on new projects such as a new alumni database, a new leadership program, a Grade 9 program, and a reinvigorated chorale program.

I have no hesitation in asking that each Friend and Alumnus to consider LCBI a priority in your giving. As we continue to grow in size and in capacity, we need your support!

LCBI Beliefs

We believe that God has a purpose for each of our students

We believe in educating the whole person and developing character.

We believe in challenging our students to become leaders of their own life

We believe in challenging our students to become Christ-centered leaders in our communities.

We believe in being loved and returning love

If you believe in Seeing Jesus as Christ for all students ...

If you believe in the value of being a Renaissance student: singing in the choir, taking a part in a play, leading worship, playing on the soccer team, and being on the honour roll ...

If you believe in being loved and returning love ...

Please remember LCBI in your monetary plans and your prayers.

FROM THE PRINCIPAL

by Leanne Engen, Principal

We are excited to start another LCBI Bison year! The 107th to be exact – thanks be to God.

Opening Day was on September 4th, where students and families gathered to register, sign a myriad of consent forms, receive dorm room assignments and roommates, smile for the camera, pay school fees, worship together, review important changes in several school departments, and then eat together before parents headed home. It was a busy and joyful day.

We started the school year on September 5th, as per Education Act legislation, at the same time as thousands of other students in their respective school divisions across Saskatchewan. Students met with Campus Life as well as Academic departments to choose classes, go through the Student Handbook, receive orientation in the Computer Lab, Weight Room, and Gym, and learn how we live in community. We also came together as a school community in chapel.

On September 6th, we began the routine of a regular school week and month, and it was great to see the student body come together very quickly and engage in classes and spend time getting to know one another. Chapel time is being led by a rotation of local pastors, an intern, our LCBI President, staff, and student House groups. Our new Grade Nine students have fit in well, and the faculty has risen to the challenge of learning new curriculum and taking on new teaching loads- we are thankful! A new staff member has also fit in well: we welcome Leah Adelman to the staff of LCBI as teacher and Athletic Director. Leah is no stranger to LCBI, and we are excited for the leadership she will bring to the campus. Extra-curricular activities began in earnest on September 5th, and several athletic events will have been completed since this greeting was written. On the 13th and 14th of September, we travelled to Elbow Lutheran Bible Camp to gather for our second annual Leadership Retreat, which was a resounding success. (The photo below was taken at it.) You can read more about this retreat on the next page.

LCBI High School offers so much to students. – there is something for everyone – and that is saying a lot for a school our size with a small staff complement. I want to thank all staff, in advance, for the countless hours they will spend over the course of 2017–2018 to make this year a positive experience for all. We wear our Maroon and Gold proudly, and we will set high expectations for all students in the hopes this will be a year of successes in all areas of life.

Please keep LCBI in your thoughts and prayers. This is a truly special school, and we look forward to putting “students first” and witnessing the growth in all of our students this year! We pray that “We Would See Jesus.”

STUDENT LEADERSHIP PROGRAM

L CBI held its second annual Leadership Retreat on September 13 and 14. It was a solid time to continue to build the whole leadership program. Our guest speaker was Rod Donison. Mr. Donison, a chaplain with the Regina Police Service, is the South Saskatchewan Director of LeaderImpact.<sup>1</sup> Mr. Donison connected with students! Rarely have I witnessed our students listening for nearly two hours in one sitting. Each comment regarding leadership was an applicable and reflective moment for our students. Leadership themes were a “Servant Heart” and “Serving in the Little Things.”

This year, all students are on a leadership team (i.e., House). Each student was then asked to choose a leadership area to which they wish to belong (Academic, Intermural, Arts, Faith & Life, or Service), within that House. The students in each House nominated a Senior Leader from among their group.

A Changing Workplace

Students need the training provided through the LCBI Leadership Program because the world of work is changing. In the past, most people were able to find permanent employment for 25 years or more. For many of my generation, positions lasting seven-to-ten years have been common. For those who have entered the workforce in the past fifteen years, positions have often lasted only three or four years. Future LCBI graduates will likely find themselves without regular positions at all.

Instead, many will work from project-to-project, signing short-term contracts and facing some insecurity about future paycheques. This dramatic change in employment expectations will require our students to have the flexibility to be able to merge into team environments, with teams of various sizes and with colleagues they may only work with for a short time.

Leadership as Teamwork

The most recent theories of leadership emphasize the sociology of an organization. Students need to be comfortable fulfilling various roles on a team, both as leaders providing direction and as servants carrying out the mission. The focus is no longer on a single leader. LCBI’s leadership program works with team leadership concepts. Rather than having staff direct everything, multiple student leaders organize their respective teams, achieving projects including study habit support, intermural sports, arts events organization, evening devotions, environmental stewardship, community service, etc. In society, we see this model at play in the recent change to a team-based approach to the CBC National News. No longer does CBC have the single-person anchor for the National; it now takes a team perspective, with four people dividing the work.

Instigating Change

LCBI is at the leading edge by directly engaging our students in Team Leadership. We see the students learning conflict resolution skills, tolerance, and how to interact with various groups. Not only will this program prepare students for the working world, but it should also equip them to become leaders in our communities and in our churches. When people pull together towards common goals, spirits soar, and amazing things happen. Our students will have the skills and drive to become instigators of positive change for society.

At the LWF Assembly in Namibia

by Jenna Bratvold, Class of 2014

In May 2017, I had the incredible opportunity to attend the LWF Twelfth Assembly in Namibia, Africa. The Lutheran World Federation (LWF) is a global communion of 145 member churches from nearly one hundred countries across the world. The Assemblies are the highest decision-making bodies, where hundreds of church representatives come together to talk about important world issues, determine the future direction of the LWF, and share meaningful cross-cultural experiences. With this in mind, I was excited and honoured when I was selected to be a part of the Twelfth Assembly as a youth steward and delegate.

From May 3 to 9, I attended the Youth Pre-Assembly which took place in Ondangwa, northern Namibia. Nearly 120 people, aged 18–30, took part in the Pre-Assembly; together we represented 44 countries. We participated in workshops and held discussions about our current context and our vision for the future. I was a full delegate for the Youth Pre-Assembly, so I had a voice and a vote, and I was thrilled to engage with so many amazing youth from across the world.

A Message from the Youth

One goal of the Pre-Assembly was to create a message to present to everyone at the Twelfth Assembly. The message was a way to outline important issues the world faces that the youth believe should be addressed. After much discussion, we narrowed it down to three main points: revival of churches, equity, and education. We presented the message at the Assembly, and we called upon the global communion of the LWF to take action in addressing these topics. It was inspiring to see so many people my age wanting to change the world and talking about real ways to make a positive impact!

We also shared in faith during daily Bible studies, morning and evening prayer services, spontaneous conversations at meals, and on long bus rides. I even had the opportunity to spend the night with a local Namibian family and attend a worship service the next morning at their home church. Despite not understanding the language the service was held in, it was a moving experience, and I learned you do not always need to understand the words that you are singing to worship God. It amazed me to talk about my faith with people from all over the world, from all different cultures and contexts, and realize we all had the same fundamental beliefs.

On May 10, after a long bus ride through beautiful landscapes, including Etosha National Park, the youth arrived in Windhoek, where the Twelfth Assembly would take place. I was one of thirty stewards, and we worked with a local volunteer team to help the Assembly run smoothly. I helped with registration for the first few days, where I welcomed people, signed them in and was an extra hand for staff or others who needed help. After registration closed, I worked in Plenary Hall where the main sessions were held. Both roles were great, but it was especially exciting to be able to sit in on the sessions and hear the discussions during Plenary. I learned a lot about the LWF and how our communion is shining Christ's light and impacting the world.

One thing about the Twelfth Assembly that was particularly special was that it took place during the 500-Year Reformation Commemoration. All the members of the Assembly were invited to attend a huge worship service in a stadium with thousands of people to commemorate Luther's reformation of the church. It was definitely a highlight of the Assembly!

Canadians at the Assembly

While I was the only Canadian at the Youth Pre-Assembly, there were quite a few other Canadians at the Twelfth Assembly. For example, Bishop Larry Kochendorfer from the ABT Synod attended as a LWF Council member. ELCIC National Bishop Susan Johnson was also present, as were quite a few clergy and lay delegates.

Many of the Canadians I met were familiar with LCBI, including Youth Delegate Dan LeBlanc, who graduated from LCBI a few years before me. It was great to meet other Canadians, but I also loved the global aspect of the Assembly. This was my first experience meeting so many Lutherans from different countries and I was inspired to see all these people come together to talk about how we can better the world.

Looking back, I can appreciate how much my experiences before the Assembly enabled me to get so much more out of it, especially LCBI. I grew stronger in my faith during my years at LCBI, and this gave me confidence to challenge myself and have more meaningful discussions with the people I met about what I believe. I also developed leadership skills at LCBI that allowed me to participate more fully in sessions and voice my opinions with confidence.

Attending this Assembly was truly an opportunity of a lifetime, and I am so thankful for everyone who made it happen.

Recruitment Report

Become a Bison!

LCBi hosts a number of events during the year for prospective students interested in becoming part of the family. If you or someone you know is interested in becoming a Bison and writing their own LCBI story, please contact me, Shane Korol, by email at recruitment@lcbi.sk.ca.

Spend-A-Days are opportunities for students interested in LCBI to experience a day in the life of an LCBI student. These events are open to students currently in grades 8–11.

Upcoming Spend-A-Day events will occur on October 23, January 31 (tentative), March 9, and April 23.

Open House is a weekend-long event on June 1 and 2 for prospective students and parents to visit LCBI. It's a great opportunity to meet with faculty and current students; check out our sporting facilities, classrooms and dorms; and join us for daily worship and for lunch.

Individual Campus Tours can be arranged in advance for families wanting to visit LCBI on another date. It's best to let us know in advance.

Enrollment this Fall

We have some wonderful news to report this fall: enrollment is up! At present, we have seventy-five students enrolled: twenty-five boarding and fifty day students. We are very glad to have both new and returning students in our midst.

President Hove has run some calculations, based on our discussions with students who have indicated an interest in coming to LCBI when they are ready for high school. If recruitment remains strong as it has been in the past couple of years, he projects that in two years, we may well be back to 110 students.

CHOIR & Drama

by Graham Codling

Choir is off to a great start, with thirty-three students singing this year. So far, we have been busy preparing three songs for Homecoming. We will soon begin learning the music for our Christmas concert, which will be held Wednesday December 20th at 7:30 p.m., in the LCBI Chapel

Drama

As part of the Arts Ed course for Grade 9, the entire class is taking Drama for the first two months along with the Drama 10/20/30 students.

We are studying how to be better actors and actresses through developing imagination, communication, observation, and the proper use of the voice. We have also practiced our dramatic reading and story telling.

The students are now beginning to write and perform skits and develop their improvisation skills.

Last spring, the choir was very active. We performed in the Outlook and District Music Festival at Bethlehem Lutheran Church on March 30; there we were awarded a scholarship. Early in April, the Spring Choir Tour (photos above) took us to churches and care homes in Lanigan, Yorkton, Melville, Churchbridge, Lumsden, Moose Jaw. The home concert was held on June 9th, with excellent performances by both the Concert Choir and the Chamber Choir. A standing ovation followed the finale number, "I'll Tell My Ma."

The 2017 Spring Musical was Disney's High School Musical Jr. Three performances were held early in May. Twenty students formed the cast, with lead parts played by Dexter Deugau (as Troy Bolton) and Sarah Haugen (as Gabriella Montez). There are also many students involved behind the scenes, helping with lights, props and stage work.

Through the Leadership Program, the houses Matthew, Mark, John, and Luke also each put on a play in June. Those were a lot of fun! To the right is a photo from the cast of the House of John's performance.

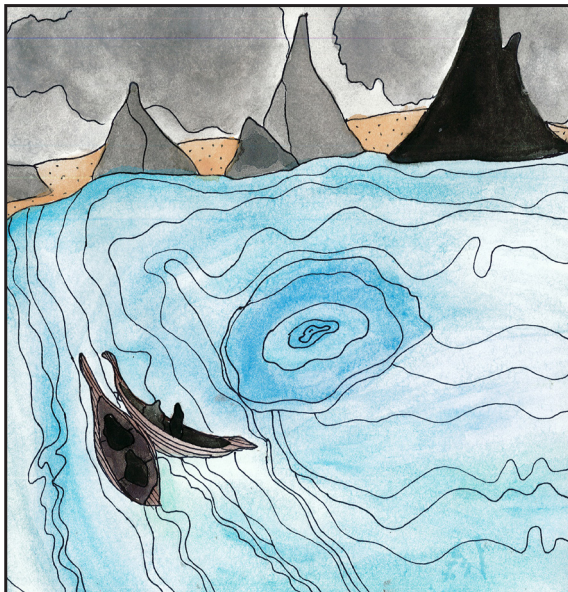

by Rick Delaine

Here are three works that were created by last year's Fine Arts students.

Sculpture

Maia Jorgensen created this sculpture of Toothless the Dragon (from the movie How to Train Your Dragon) last year. The sculpture was created using boneware – a type of clay that air dries and doesn't need to be fired. Maia demonstrated a great deal of skill using boneware.

Watercolour

Aubrie Tucker's painting is a watercolour she painted last year. She was painting a scene from Tolkien's Lord of the Rings. She achieved something reminiscent of the style of painting known as Impressionism, in which the artist is more worried about communicating the feeling/impression of a scene as opposed to presenting it realistically.

Pencil Crayon

Piper Boon's piece is an original illustration using a line technique in the medium of pencil crayon. The purpose behind the approach was to avoid filling or coloring in a figure, forcing students to interpret color through line specifically. The end result is a pretty nifty effect that both represents a realist and abstract style.

LCBI ATHLETICS Fall 2017

by Leah Adelman

The opening month of school has proven to be a busy one for Athletics here at LCBI. The Bisons have been incredibly busy with golf, cross country, football, soccer and volleyball happening on a daily basis and many students are participating in more than one sport.

A Good Start to the Season

The boys football team had a strong start to their season, winning their home opener against Central Butte. The team is led by a new head coach, Michael Haugen (alumni) and Sean Ziegler (alumni), under the mentorship of long-time veteran, Phil Guebert.

The boys soccer team also had a strong start to the season, winning their home tournament with two wins and a tie. The team is being coached by Rick Delainey, who has a busy schedule planned and high hopes for the season.

Boys volleyball practiced throughout the first month of school and will kick off their season come October.

Lady Bisons Volleyball are happy after having won first place in the Rock the Block tournament, late September 2017

Girls volleyball has been keeping most of our girls busy, as twenty athletes are playing this season. The Lady Bisons have made two teams and attended two tournaments already as well as league play throughout the week. The squad is young but eager to work hard and learn the game! The Lady Bisons are coached by Jennifer Ridgewell and Leah Adelman.

And when all is said and done, most of the athletes are taking time to also train with coach Andrea Klassen for cross country. She has been willing to run at any time of the day to make it work for our Bisons.

Education through Sport

As easy as it is for players, coaches, parents, and fans to get caught up in the wins and losses or the score of the game, LCBI Athletics will always strive to follow the “Education through Sport” model. What matters in the end is not the medals or accolades, but our ability to help our athletes grow and develop as people.

Among other attributes, athletics can assist in promoting the importance of teamwork and team unity, establishing goals and working toward their achievement, and the development of sportsmanship, honesty and integrity. All of our program goals stem from the school motto, “We would see Jesus.” The sport court, field or pitch is simply a medium in which we can bring glory to God.

Valedictory Address

by Sarah Haugen

Good afternoon, family and friends, and Happy Mother's Day! Thank you all for coming to this very special weekend of ours. For years we have worked hard, and the day has finally arrived. Thank you for the support, encouragement, and love you have given us. Without you all, we couldn't have made it to this day and we thank God that you have been a part of our lives.

Before I acknowledge our graduates, I'd like to acknowledge our 2016–2017 LCBI family. Firstly, our staff. I strongly feel God's presence here because of you all. You were called to this place to serve and you have been a blessing to all of us. Your devotion to your job, to us, and most of all to God is an example I hope to match one day. We have grown, matured, and we have become better people because we came here. Thank you.

Grade Elevens and Tens, I am sorry to say we are leaving you behind. The memories we have shared are so very precious and the jokes... let's just say I hope I forget them. As a student body, we have shared an entire year of laughing, loving, and serving our Lord and I can't thank you all enough for being here today. I pray that as we go on our new journeys, you will fill our school with even more love and laughter than you did before. We leave here as a whole people knowing we are loved by God and his servants, the community of LCBI. Also, I thank you in advance for all the cleanup you are going to do on Monday morning. It is much appreciated.

So... this is it. We've been at this gig for about thirteen years. We've learned basic math and how to tie our shoes. We learned why Canada became a nation and that if you run for political office wearing a wig and your principal's grad dress, you may win.

Our lives have always had school in our focus. Now the focus is a little blurred. Some of us feel the call to university; others hear the call to tech schools. And some of us haven't heard a call yet and are really hoping the reception gets better sometime soon. This is a scary step we face. However the Bible urges us not to worry. Matthew 6: 26 says, "Look at the birds of the air: they neither sow nor reap nor gather into barns, and yet your heavenly Father feeds them. Are you not of more value than they?" The jump between teenager and adult can feel terrifying, but we can take comfort in knowing that God is there every step of the way.

Graduation 2017

Now I'd like the audience to look at the beautiful and handsome young people to my left. They are in fact a bunch of goofballs. They are the ones who decided it would be a good idea to ask for (and subsequently receive) slushies and ice cream sandwiches on two separate occasions. This is the class that jumps out from under the desk to scare Mrs. Engen and reads the lyrics to "Fresh Prince of Bel-Air" for a Grade 11 English assignment. This is also the class that I love. These are some of the strongest and hardest working people I have met. They are funny, unique, and most of all they are truly, as Mr. Hove likes to say, daughters and sons of LCBI.

Class of 2017, you are amazing. I am honoured to stand up here and represent you. God has made you into his masterpiece and it is beautiful. My prayer is that we will look back on our time here and value the blessing it is truly. You are godly people and I am lucky to be a part of your class. And, without any doubt, I know that you will continue to be an example of Christ's love wherever you may go.

In honour of Mother's Day, I wish to close with a saying my mother would say to me as I left for school. So, as we leave school for our last time, I say to the LCBI Class of 2017: God bless you, God loves you, and so do I.

"This is a picture of Charlie resting on the treadmill in the weight room. He comes into the weight room to keep me (Rick Delainey) company when I'm lifting weights, doing pull-ups, etc. He's a great training partner because he is so encouraging and cute."
